'05ers:

Last month Wabash opened its doors to the Class of 2019. As another generation of men prepares to preserve the traditions we fell in love with 14 years ago, may you be reminded of how important support from active alumni was to us our first year on campus. The newest members of our Wabash family look forward to seeing you this academic year. While some of you may choose to give monetarily and others will donate their time, in the end, what makes Wabash men so unique is how we continue to bond with one another and uphold the traditions of our Alma Mater.

This fall join Ruffing at homecoming and Jason in Greencastle at the Monon Bell game. Please look for us and let us know how you're doing - we'd love to beef up the Alumni Update section of our newsletters.

WAF,

Jason Cantu & Mike Ruffing

Also, make time to stop by the Eric Dean Gallery in the Fine Arts Center to see the 35 Retro: Doug Calisch exhibit. This retrospective exhibition celebrates the distinguished teaching and artistic career of Professor of Art Doug Calisch. Calisch has taught ceramics, sculpture, and photography at Wabash College for 35 years. The exhibit encompasses a broad range of his art, including significant ceramic, mixed media, wood, and painted woods constructions, along with his recent wall-relief constructions using found objects and photographs. His work embodies the delicate balance between preserving an object's history and creating new ways of looking at and thinking about forms and images. For more details and for exhibit times visit: www.wabash.edu/fineartscalendar & <http://www.wabash.edu/alumni/homecoming>.

ALUMNI UPDATES

Terry Archambeault: “Beginning August 3rd, I will be the Campaign Coordinator for the Geological Society of America.”

Kevin Casey: “I am currently living in Indianapolis working for Equian, LLC. I am the Product Manager for our Workers’ Compensation services which include claims processing and pharmacy benefit management services for carriers and self-insured organizations. I am utilizing my Wabash English degree daily by writing our proposals and other marketing materials. Prior to moving back to Indianapolis I worked for Xerox in Lexington, KY in a similar role marketing business process outsourcing services.”

Mark Cross: “I live on the Southeast side of Indianapolis in a home my wife and I bought about 3 years ago. I work at Angie’s List as an advertising account manager, working hand in hand with fellow Wallies such as Dan Ristine ‘05. My wife and I are expecting our first child, a baby girl, in October. I still distrust JJ Guthrie ‘05.”

Aaron Flagg: “Currently, my wife Tania and I are residing in Austin, TX with our son Hunter who is 13 months. We are expecting baby #2 in December, a girl. I am working for TempurSealy as a National Accounts Manager in their Ecommerce Division. I look forward to seeing everyone again soon!”

Andrew McGlothlen: “On April 25, 2015, I married Kathryn Elizabeth May after four years together. The ceremony and reception were held at Camp Wokanda in Chillicothe, IL - an old Boy Scout camp now run by the local park district. Groomsmen included my two TKE pledge sons, Eric Eder ‘08 and Alex Thompson ‘09. Eric’s son Leo was a ring bearer in the ceremony. Fellow TKE Phil McNelly ‘10 was also in attendance with his family. The honeymoon was split between the Bourbon Trail in eastern Kentucky and enjoying the mountains around Gatlinburg, TN. We were sorry to have missed the 10-year reunion this June, but have you seen what it costs to throw a party for 150 of your nearest and dearest these days?”

Giving back to Wabash

As of July 1, 2015, gifts made through June 30, 2016 will be included in the 2015-2016 fiscal year for giving to the College. Since July 1, the following men from our class have made a contribution to Wabash: Eric Bright, Jason Cantu, John Dustman, Bobby Love, Drew McCoy, John Meyer, and Michael Ruffing. Our goal this year is to have at least 75 men donate to the College. The largest donor amount our class has had is 74 donors in 2005! We can beat that this year!
