Class of 2012 UPDATE

November 2013

Men of 2012 –

The leaves have begun to turn, the days are getting shorter, and the Wabash Football team is off to another impressive start --- some things never change! Monon Bell festivities are just around the corner. Check our class Facebook page for more information about a Class of 2012 tailgate party at the Wade household in Greencastle on Saturday, November 16. There is also the Monon Bell Stag at the Murat Shrine in Indy on Wednesday, Nov. 13, which is always a good time and a chance to start the embarrassment and ridicule of Dannies a few days before the game. Game time for the Bell is 1:07 p.m. on the 16th and there are also over 60 watch parties planned across the country.

The Indianapolis area Monon Bell telecast parties:

As always, please keep in touch to let your classmates know how life is progressing after Wabash. There are a number of weddings quickly approaching, which will mean classmates and pledge brothers getting together – don't forget to snap a few photos and send them in for the newsletter or Facebook page.

We plan on sending a longer letter this winter, with a particular focus on the 2012 guys traveling across the world with service initiatives and organizations, truly “spreading the fame of her honored name.” Reach out with ideas, too!

The Admissions Office Needs YOUR Help!!!

This fall, the Admissions Office held a series of Alumni Volunteer Workshops with an emphasis on boosting referral numbers and increasing the number of alumni who help recruit prospective students. The workshops provided attendees with all of the tools necessary to identify and recruit future generations of Wabash men including roles volunteers can fill, reports on current recruitment strategies, updates on new academic and co-curricular programs, and materials for your recruiting arsenal.

After attending one of the workshops, we have included several of the slides from Chip Timmons '96, as the presentation gave a great picture of where Wabash is headed in terms of continuing to recruit quality students.

Strategic Advantages

- | | |
|--|----------------------------|
| Refer prospective students | Waive application fees |
| College fair coverage | Award night coverage |
| Calls/Letters to prospective students | Provide personal testimony |
| Attend on-campus and off-campus events | "Adopt-a-school" |
| Recruit/Motivate other volunteers | "Lifestyle Evangelism" |

These are all things YOU can help with!

Perhaps more than anything, the Admissions Office is asking for alums to refer guys who might make great Wabash men. Perhaps younger siblings of your friends or the son of one of your coworkers... all you need to do is provide their name, high school, and address. Admissions will do the rest and will even send you a nice note of thanks.

Please consider sending in a few names and helping out Wabash:

- Update from Mark Osnowitz:

"Lindsey and I both found jobs over here in Scotland, so we are staying for the long term. We even had our dog sent over! I am loving work, and potentially have the chance to return to the USA to do some business development. The company I work for specializes in helping large organizations go through change. Or as my boss has said in the past, we help companies fix themselves when they can't do it alone. Will know in the next few weeks if the plan is a go or not."

Wabash & DePauw Join Forces to Oppose HJR-6

This week President Hess and President Brian Casey of DePauw issued a joint statement in opposition of HJR-6, a piece of legislation that would constitutionally define marriage in Indiana as a union between one man and one woman.

Their statement reads, in part: "Our students come from around the country and around and world, and our fundamental goal is to educate them to think critically, exercise responsible leadership, communicate effectively, and tackle complex problems. This depends on attracting talented faculty and staff, a task that is made more difficult by the passage of this amendment. We are also engaged in the enterprise of fostering ideas and innovation, a mission which inherently depends on an environment of openness and inclusion that would be compromised should this amendment be enacted."
