Dear Class of 1994,

Big Bash Reunion - Class of 1994
June 4-6, 2004. Be there!

Ten years have passed since our graduation from Wabash, our alma mater, and this is an ideal time to commemorate that achievement in our lives. Wabash hopes that her sons have marked their calendars and are making their reservations to visit their alma mater for our tenth-year reunion.

A host of events and opportunities have been scheduled to give you a chance to renew friendships, plea your case again to your favorite professors about why you should have received that “A” instead of that “B” on that paper. Also, this is the perfect opportunity to continue and expand upon those philosophical dialogues you held with roommates, fraternity brothers, classmates and professors that you held over your select beverage of choice. This commemoration is also your opportunity to see how your school has progressed with time. A wise man once said, … you have to stop and smell the roses …” and is it not ironic that when we graduated we were presented with roses. The time has come for us to stop and return to that place of our growth and achievement and smell/feel the endless possibilities of the roses presented to us. If we do this, we could launch ourselves on a new road of possibilities or strengthen our continued progression towards our goals in our lives. I am now going to stop my sentimental drooling and just ask why anyone would pass up a BIG BASH?

The Alumni Office has planned a big weekend of activities that will keep you busy and engaged in activity. One of the highlights of the weekend will be the Chapel Sing Competition between the various reunion classes of the year. It would be a real shame for the Class of ’94 to lose this competition because of a lack of participation or low attendance. Also, there will be a reunion award for the class with the highest participation in the Annual Fund (GWF) this year. Right now we are next to last!!! Please consider a gift, any gift, before June 4th. Go to www.wabash.edu/giving to make a gift online.

Remember also that we have rooms set aside for our class in Wolcott and Morris Halls - $30 a night for two adjoining rooms – register now to insure we get an entire hall to ourselves! Reservations need to be made with the College before May 24.

So, visit the following website: www.wabash.edu/alumni/reunion, survey the events of the weekend and make your plans to attend.

Sincerely,

C. Lee Hill Jr.
Class Agent

P.S. - I will drop another letter in mid – May highlighting the BIG BASH!
