Dear Class of 1985:

First some notes directly related to our class:

- First, a correction to my June letter. Despite a rumor that I accidentally started, Tim Grusenmeyer reports that his wife wants to continue to use her original name, Michelle. My apologies to Michelle and Tim. :-{()=
- Two of our classmates, Mark Brosmer and Ryan Lane are doing a combined exhibit of their art work at the Eric Dean Gallery of the Wabash Fine Arts Center. The free exhibit will run from September 12 – November 14. The gallery is open Monday – Friday 9-5 and Saturdays 2-6. On Friday September 12, there will be an Opening Reception from 4-7 with an Artist Talk from 4:15-4:45. Also on exhibit is 20th Century Indiana Art: A Private Collection of Midwestern Regional Paintings, with works on loan from Dan Kraft '85. You can find more details at: <https://www.wabash.edu/academics/art/gallery/current>
- At the Big Bash, Jason Dyer recounted some of his past adventures stargazing, particularly from “dark parks” which are known for their lack of light pollution. He mentioned that he was planning a trip to Wisconsin, so I recommended that he check out our Newport State Park for its dark sky plus also check some of our other scenic spots. He reported back that they “had a great time ... at Mirror Lake, Peninsula and Newport parks. The dark park was quite rewarding!”
- My chance to play tour guide for Jason brings up a good use of the Wabash Alumni Directory. With alumni spread out “where_ever the breezes blow,” the directory can help you get insider information when you travel to a new place. You might even get a chance to reconnect with a classmate and to send a picture to your class agent for sharing the story with the class! Please update the directory when your contact information changes at: <https://www.wabash.edu/alumni/eservices>

So what about YOU? Please feel free to share news of your life with me so I can spread the word.

News from Wabash College:

- In a bit of sad news, former Classics Professor and an honorary alumnus of the class of 1970, Dr. John Fischer passed away last month. You can find his obituary at: <https://www.wabash.edu/news/story/13497>. The College has set a memorial service for Professor Fischer for Saturday, November 1, 2025 in Salter Concert Hall in the Fine Arts Center. The program will begin at 5:00 p.m. with a reception to follow in Detchon Center’s International Hall.

- In much happier news, the 270 members of the Class of 2029 had their Ringing-In Ceremony on August 23. The Class of 2029 includes students from 18 states and 15 countries. You can find a recording of the ceremony here: <https://youtu.be/9e9exxbJJx4?si=j9Dto6APfZXQK7Yf>
- Wabash Magazine Editor, Kim Johnson has some Big Questions for You for upcoming articles:
 - What's the biggest chance, risk, dare, bet, or challenge you have taken? What was the result? What did you learn?
 - Do you work or volunteer in the public service sector? Tell us about what you do.
 - Tell us about your favorite holiday and/or family/friend tradition you celebrate every year.
 - If you ran into a college friend you hadn't seen in years, what would they be surprised to learn about you?

You can reply to her directly at: johnsonk@wabash.edu Feel free to answer one or all of the completely unrelated questions. Photos welcome!

p.s. One of the keys to a successful student recruitment year is referrals from alumni. As the number of college-bound men drops in the coming years, the Admissions Office can use your assistance finding good candidates for Wabash. If you would like to refer students for the next 2-3 entering classes, here's a link to the Admissions Office's referral form: <https://apply.wabash.edu/register/refer>
