Classmates:

We hope you had a great summer. Here is an update as we head into the fall.

Reunion Tailgate

Although our reunion in June was cancelled due to the pandemic, we have a chance to come together on campus. Here are the plans from the College:

Saturday, October 16

We are hosting classes celebrating milestone reunions from the 5th to 45th, including those that would have been last year. Join your classmates for a festive tailgate in Mud Hollow, watch Wabash soccer take on Kenyon, then head into the new Little Giant Stadium for the football game against Wooster.

Sign up today!

News from our class

Mike Rogers

Congratulations to Mike Rogers for earning a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH). He is the first Arkansas Tech University faculty member in over 40 years to receive the grant! Way to go Mike!

Roy Sexton

Congratulations to Roy Sexton for being honored as a leader in the community!

<https://www.crainsdetroit.com/awards/roy-sexton-notable-lgbtq-2021>

The leaders on this list are change-agents, door-openers and role models, their peers and colleagues told us. They create safety and community where they live and work. They hire and mentor other #LBGTQ people and help them succeed. Many of them said that coming out and being themselves at work has been a journey, reminding us that the gains made for LGBTQ equity have been expansive in a relatively short period of time — within the span of many of these professionals' careers.

METHODOLOGY: The leaders featured in this report were selected from nominations by a team of Crain's Detroit Business editors based on their career accomplishments, track record of success in the field and effectiveness of their efforts, as outlined in a detailed application form. Roy Sexton joined Clark Hill Law three years ago as marketing manager, but the firm quickly promoted him to director. Now he oversees a team of professionals across the country and supports affinity programs at Clark Hill, including BOLD for women, PRIDE for LGBTQI employees and THRIVE for people of color.

In 2018, Michigan Lawyers Weekly named him an Unsung Legal Hero for consistently going beyond the call of duty. As treasurer of the international board of the Legal Marketing Association, Sexton helped launch an outside DEI consultancy. He is also a guest on podcasts where he illustrates how inclusion brings growth and success to any organization.

In the nonprofit realm, Sexton co-founded The Penny Seats, an outdoor theater company in Ann Arbor. He also chaired the governance committee for Mosaic Youth Theatre of Detroit.

Information from campus

Thanks for a Record Year!

Thanks to all of you who made a gift last fiscal year and encouraged your classmates to make one as well. Fueled by a record Day of Giving in April, you contributed to the highest annual fundraising total in Wabash's history. We ended up just 215 alumni donors shy of 45%, so it gives us a focus for this year. Here's the full story:

Future Wabash Students

Admissions reports that alumni referrals were down last year, so please encourage your classmates to recommend brothers, sons, nephews, grandsons, great-grandsons, or any high school student you think would make a great Wabash Man. Just fill out the streamlined form at wabash.edu/refer.

Need to find the Admissions Counselor in your area? Check here.

Prospective students have plenty of opportunities to visit campus this fall. Find the schedule here. Registration for Scarlet Honors Weekend (December 10-11) opens in late September.

What's Happening

We've seen great response to our online events at Whenever. Wherever. Wabash. (wabash.edu/www). Seasoned and newly minted alumni, students, faculty, staff, spouses, families, and friends have all interacted with current and emeritus faculty in sessions on cooking and history, the chemistry of wine, and Hemingway's short stories. Look for new opportunities to experience campus online this fall.

Find the log of latest news here: <https://www.wabash.edu/news/archives/>

It's refreshing to see a full slate of fall sports and even winter sports schedules start to fill in. You and your classmates can find out when and where the Little Giants are competing from the composite schedule here.
