Dear Classmates:

Another Wabash academic year has come to a close and 229 men have joined us as graduates. The Class of 2015 includes a Rhodes Scholar, three Fulbright Scholarship winners, and three others who will serve fellowships overseas. More than 43 men will enroll in Ph.D. medical, law, and graduate schools. Four men will join Teach for America, while two others will serve in the AmeriCorps City Year program. Further, the class has 86 men who have already accepted full-time employment or postgraduate internships.

For updated college news and photos of campus events, please check www.wabash.edu. You can even get a thorough glimpse of major athletic, academic, and alumni events on the College's photo gallery: http://wabash.edu/photo_album/

We will also be launching a new feature on our Class of 2004 Facebook page to feature campus events, interviews, and reflections targeted to you. Beginning this week, Campus Unity Tour '04 will periodically feature videos, pictures, or stories; we encourage you to do the same when you connect with classmates or return to campus.

We are still in awe of the response we received from you on this year's Wabash Day of Giving (4.22). Our class led all alumni classes with 90 donors making a gift – that is nearly half of all classmates! This was an incredible gesture of support and leadership and we're continuously proud to be among this group. The 4.22 Day of Giving raised 2848 gifts for $505,677 in just 24 hours. WAF!

Best,

Mark Shreve and Jacob Pactor
